

Our Privacy Policy

We're locksmiths and are not into sharing or selling your personal information to third parties.

We do need to have some details about you but only enough details so that we can attend your property and carry out the work you require and also to respond to your email enquiries from our website.

We will only keep details of you the work we have done for you in the form of a copy of the invoice issued to you on completion of work. This document will be stored for a maximum of 7 years as determined by the requirements of HMRC.

Our website and app may use location services to help you find your nearest locksmith. We won't store your location or pass it to third parties. We may remember the location you chose so that you don't need to select it the next time you use us but that's it. We do however use the Google Analytics app to help improve the performance of our website. Please see Google's individual terms and conditions for this app.

Oh, and finally, we don't do sales marketing either and won't hassle you with unsolicited offers.

If there's anything you think we may have overlooked in keeping you informed regarding your privacy then please do not hesitate to contact us via our usual contact details.